

ITHACA, N.Y. -- Paul Veronesi of Agawam, Mass. has been named to the 12 man Ithaca College varsity basketball team.

Veronesi led the Ithacans in scoring on last year's freshman team, where he played guard, and is rated one of the top prospects the School has had in the past 10 years.

A sophomore in Business Admin., he is a '68 graduate of Agawam High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Veronesi, 20 Central St.

The Agawam Public Libraries will hold an open house on Sunday, December 14, from 3-5 p.m. at the Agawam Center Library located at 733 Main St. We cordially invite anyone interested to attend.

PLEASE FEED THE BIRDS

The Mass. S.P.C.A. reminds everyone to please feed the birds during these cold winter days when the ground is frozen.

Keep a box of sand and gravel in a sheltered place, accessible to the birds. A bird can starve to death if some sort of grit is not available.

Bird food should be put in a feeder or on a board with a molding to prevent the seed from blowing away. One of the most popular bird foods is cracked corn - wheat with wild birdseed, and sunflower seeds. Many birds like sunflower seeds such as Nuthatches, Purple Finches, and Chickadees, the Mass. State Bird. Woodpeckers prefer suet and peanut butter.

The rewards of feeding the birds are many, from enjoying their color and song in summer, to realizing that you are saving the lives of many of our best insect controls.

WATCH THOSE FOWL BONES!

Feasting time is here again. Let your pet dog or cat enjoy it, to. Dr. Gus W. Thornton, Chief-of-Staff of the Mass. S.P.C.A.'s Angell Memorial Animal Hospital warns of the danger of pets' eating poultry bones of any kind.

It only takes a tiny sliver of bone to penetrate or lodge in a pet's internal organs, causing severe illness and even death. If a piece of bone becomes lodged in a pet's throat, immediate veterinary attention is needed.

Another warning is this: See that no fat-soaked twine is in the pet's eating dish or in a waste container where he may find it. This, too, can become lodged in the intestine and cause trouble. Take an extra step and keep outside disposal lids of garbage cans secure so that pets cannot possibly get at the bones or scatter them on the lawn.

A little care and thought will keep you and your pet happy!

Senior Citizens Christmas Party, Open House

The Agawam Council of Aging will sponsor a Christmas Party and Open House at the senior citizen drop-in center on Main St., Agawam, Sunday, Dec. 14 from 1-4 p.m.

Members of the Agawam Junior Women's Club will serve as hostesses for the event which will feature entertainment and free refreshments. The public is invited.

A 14-year old boy in a children's institution said that The Salvation Army gift he received at Christmas was the first present he'd had since his parents had abandoned him 4 years previously.

ORCHIDS FOR THIS ONE

WESTFIELD -- Following a pattern established last year, employees of the Westfield Savings Bank will forego the exchange of gifts during the bank's annual Christmas party and will donate what they would ordinarily spend for presents to the Toy for Joy program of the Westfield Chamber of Commerce.

Employees of the bank's offices -- the main office and the drive-in office in Westfield, and the W. Springfield and Agawam offices -- will attend their Christmas party at Crestview Country Club the night of December 11.

Arthur W. Knapp, president, said the bank's employees "feel they would prefer to share this phase of their Christmas with those who might be in need, and thus add to their own enjoyment of the true meaning of the season."

LIONEL POTVIN

James Falcone, president of Rocky's Hardware Inc. announced the appointment of Lionel Potvin as manager of the Agawam Rocky's Store.

Potvin, a native of Woonsocket, Rhode Island, graduated from Notre Dame in 1927. He served four years in the Navy and was stationed on a destroyer operating with Admiral Halsey's Task Force in the Philippines during World War II.

He was employed as assistant manager of Agawam Paint and Hardware from 1946 to spring of 1969 when the firm was acquired by Rocky's Hardware, Inc.

Potvin resides at 87 Island Pond Road in Springfield. The new Rocky's facility will be the largest and most well-stocked hardware store in western Mass.

Old Sturbridge Village early apple varieties

STURBRIDGE, Mass. --- A unique orchard which will feature more than 100 kinds of early American apple trees is being planned at Old Sturbridge Village, New England's center of living history in central Mass. The project, to be known as The Preservation Orchard, is a joint venture of the outdoor museum of rural life in the early 19th century and the Worcester County Horticultural Society, a noted institution founded in 1842.

The Preservation Orchard is one of 3 new orchards which will illustrate the important role that apples played in the daily life and sustenance of the Yankee farmer 150 years ago. The addition of these dozens of trees at the Village over a 3 year period will serve well to further emphasize New England's rural heritage and man's dependency on the land.

For a number of years the Hort. Society has operated an experimental orchard in North Grafton, Mass., where, during the summers of 1968 to 1969, the dozens of varieties of old apples were budded for the new project. The Preservation Orchard will be planted on a 3 acre site at Old Sturbridge during the spring of 1971.

While apples today are a popular consumer product they are by no means considered the staple item that they were in America 150 years ago. Especially in N.E. apples, along with corn, were the most versatile of crops. Apples for pies, for sauce, biscuits, fritters, puddings, vinegar, apple butter, applejack and last but not least - cider - the most commonplace of all beverages next to water.

Our forefather farmers were constantly attempting to grow bigger and better apples. In as much as apples do not propagate truly from seed, when a particularly desirable apple was discovered, perpetuation of this particular strain was possible only through "grafting" or "budding". Dozens of new varieties were propagated and distributed in early America. Interest in the development of new fruits abounded and countless articles on the subject may be found in old agricultural journals of the early 19th century and in the many books published on the culture of fruit in this country as well as in Europe.

John J. Thomas in his volume "The American Fruit Culturist" (Auburn, Mass. 1849) lists more than 275 varieties of apples of that era, many specimens of which are now extinct. The survival of a vast number of these apples has only been made possible by such groups as the Worcester County Hort. Society.

In the Preservation Orchard at Old Sturbridge there will be 2 trees of each individual variety. The orchard will be operated and maintained by the Village staff with the Hort. Soc. providing advice and guidance when needed. Limited quantities of the fruit will be available to the Society for educational purposes. Furthermore, as its contribution to this program the Hort. Soc. will continue to disseminate info and knowledge on the propagation of these old varieties. Budding and grafting stock from the Preservation Orchard will be distributed by the Worcester County Hort. Soc., 30 Elm St., Worc., Mass.

A joint committee from both non-profit educ. institutions will administer the Pres. Orchard. Professional consultants will include S. Lothrop Davenport, honorary sec. and director of the WDHS experimental orchard, Darwin P. Kelsey, dir. of historical agriculture, and E.J. Malchisky, dir. of historical hort., both of Old Sturbridge Village.

A list of the varieties that have already been budded by WCHS for the Pres. Orchard at Old Sturbridge Village follows: Alexander, American Beauty, Arkansas Black, Baldwin, Ben Davis, Benoni, Black Gilliflower, Blue Pearmain, Bullock, Chenango, Cox Orange, Deacon Jones, Dominie (English Beauty), Dutchess of Oldenburg, Dyer, Early Harvest, Early Joe, Esopus Spitzenburg, Fallawater, Fall Pippin, Fameuse, Golden Pippin, Golden Russet, Golden Sweet, Gravenstein, Green Sweet, Grimes Golden, Harvey, Hawley, Gubbardston, Huntsman, Jefferis, Jonathan.

Also, Lady, Late Strawberry, Lowell, Lyscom, Maiden's Blush, Malinda, McIntosh, Mann, Minkler, Mother, Nodhead, Northern Spy, Oliver, Plmer Greening, Paragon, Peck's Pleasant, Pennock, Pewaukee, Plumb Cider, Pomme Grise, Porter, Primate, Pumpkin Sweet, Quince of

ALA PROPOSES REBATE

BOSTON - Motorists would be able to receive pro rata rebates for unexpired portions of driver's licenses and auto registrations under a bill filed recently on behalf of the Automobile Legal Association (ALA).

The ALA bill, filed by Rep. Charles W. Long (R-Westwood), would entitle Mass. motorists to receive the rebates when a license or registration is surrendered, except for suspension or revocation.

Presently, a rebate is allowed only when a registration is terminated on or before August 1 of the reg. year and/or where the rebate would be 1/2 the fee paid in excess of $15.

David Thibodeau, gen. manager of the ALA, said enactment of the bill "would be fair and equitable for the Bay State's motoring public in view of the longer periods involved in the new systems for driver's licenses and auto reg."

The Mass. Registry of Motor Vehicles is currently changing driver's licenses to a 4 year period from a 2 year period and putting auto reg. on a 2 year basis rather than one year.

Thibodeau noted that the ALA's proposal does not require any legislative appropriation and should not require any major readjustments at the Registry.
